ExemptExam

About myself, my major is SE (software engineer), and I applied for Ph.D.

It will be three name lists during the process of the ExemptExam. If your name is on the last one with a remarks "Quasi Admission". Congratulations! you are already gotten the qualification successful.

Every collage has different rules and it will be released on the website of your own collage. It's very important and you must take care of it especially the time about every deadline, but it will have a little things which is different from that in implement processes.

The first name list means who passed the preliminary test, the number of name maybe 1.3 times than the number of qualification which is provided by your collage. The ranking rules usually about your GPA with a special algorithm, and some collages regular your GPA must less than 60% in your major.

About interview, you will get a red paper and a white paper with a passage from your textbook written by English, you could look through those about 20 to 30 minutes, after that you will come to a classroom, five teachers will ask you to summarize the passage in English and then you may introduce yourself or asked something like "how do you like G20?" in English, next they will ask you something about your projects or experience in Chinese, the question about flag you could say "I implacable against it".

After the two tests, there is a second name list rank by your collage rules including your GPA and interview score. Noticeable, you get the qualification means you have a opportunity to compete the last qualifications with other school students.

The third name list only rank by your interview score. So you must prepare it carefully.
